Business Terms and Information

READ CAREFULLY BEFORE ORDERING

TERMS. Full remittance should accompany all orders, unless satisfactory arrangements have been previously arranged.

C. O. D. shipments frequently cause delay in delivery and result in consequent damage to plants and loss to ourselves or to our customers. We will only ship C. O. D. on special request and when 25 per cent of the amount of the order is paid in advance.

Retail prices are net. We prepay transportation charges on all retail orders paid for before shipment, but not otherwise. Early orders to reserve stock and shipping preference may be paid 10 per cent with order and balance at shipping date.

Strict compliance with these terms will save correspondence at shipping time and consequent delay in deliveries.

TRANSPORTATION. We prepay transportation charges on all orders paid for in advance to all points within the United States, shipments by parcel post or express at our distinction. Orders sold at wholesale, or on special quotations, will be shipped collect. Transportation to foreign countries must be paid by the purchaser.

HOW TO REMIT. Make remittances by Post Office Money Order, Bank Draft, or by Personal Check, payable to Indian Spring Farms, Inc., and not to individuals. Do not send currency or silver except by registered letter.

SUBSTITUTIONS. No substitutions will be made unless your order so requests. With your permission, we are glad to send as a substitute a similar variety of equal or higher value, when possible, for any item we are unable to fill.

SHIPMENTS. Peony shipments begin as soon after September 1 as roots are matured, depending on the season. Tulip bulbs, October 1, or as soon as imports are received.

Advance orders will be filled as far as possible in rotation as received, and have precedence over later orders. As we start the shipping season with several thousands of advance orders for which it is not possible to prepare stock until growth is mature, it is obvious that late purchasers can not expect immediate shipments.

FOREIGN SHIPMENTS. We can not guarantee safe arrival to foreign countries. Orders are packed carefully and only first-class, well-cured bulbs shipped, but we can not be responsible for loss from delay and risks beyond our control.

We do not prepay transportation charges to Canada and other foreign countries.

Orders outside the United States will be shipped by express collect, unless transportation fees accompany the orders.

Canadian customers must send Import Permit number with order so we may properly mark the package for shipment.

CLAIMS. We guarantee the safe arrival of shipments to all points within the United States, but can not be responsible for losses occurring during transportation on shipments to foreign countries. All claims must be made promptly on receipt of goods.

GUARANTEE. All plants and bulbs shipped are guaranteed to be true to name, vigorous and healthy when received. Should any error occur in labeling, or otherwise, and any stock shipped eventually prove untrue, we will replace it with true stock, and you may keep the plants first sent.

Landscape with Peonies

Interesting, indeed, is the Mythological origin of the Peony. When Hercules, the son of Jove, wounded Pluto during the Trojan war by piercing him with a swift shaft through his huge shoulder, Pluto sought relief from the grievous pain that tortured his soul at the palace of Jove on lofty Mt. Olympus. There wise Paeon, physician of the gods, who had been a pupil under Aesculapius, god of medicine, was called. Thereupon, Paeon called in consultation Apollo, the great god of healing, who was the father of Aesculapius. Apollo, in turn, made intercession with his worthy parents, Zeus and Leto, with the result that Paeon received the first Peony from the hands of Leto on Mt. Olympus. With this pain-assuaging herb he healed the wound of Pluto. This cure caused much jealousy in the breast of Aesculapius and he plotted the death of Paeon. Pluto, however, in great gratitude for what Paeon had done, determined to save him from the fate of mortals and changed him into the living plant that had effected the cure — the Paeonia. Even down to the present this name has endured, and the Officinalis species, found native to southern Europe, is still highly regarded for its medicinal properties.

Of greater interest at the present time is another herbaceous species, P. albiflora, known as the Chinese Peony. It is from this primitive type, found native of the rigorous climate of northern China and Siberia, that the Modern Chinese Peony varieties have been developed.

So remarkable have been the results accomplished through years of steadfast devotion and untiring effort on the part of the Peony lovers and hybridizers that today the modern Peony is the most superb and outstanding flower that grows in our gardens.

In all the different forms a varied color range is afforded from purest white, the shadings vary through almost innumerable tints of pink, rose and carmine to crimson and darkest red. Certain flowers show hues of silver, lilac and lavender, and many have petals of yellow, or reflect tints of gold, as a reminder of the yellow stamens that once were present. While hybridizers have long been striving to produce a yellow Peony and have approximated their ambitions in such fine flowers as Primevere, Laura, Dessert and Golden Dawn, which opens a distinct shade of canary yellow and slowly shade to a white, there is yet no true yellow Peony of fixed color.

The modern Peony, being born of rugged parentage, is perfectly hardy and will thrive in the coldest climates without winter protection. It may be grown successfully wherever the ground freezes during any part of the winter, and is at its best in the colder regions where most perennials find it hard to endure, Because of its hardiness the Peony is the ideal Flower of the North

Peonies Are Easy to Grow

Peonies are easy to grow and will do well in almost any location where they have any reasonable chance. They will thrive with less care and attention than most perennials, yet they are worthy of special care and will repay for special cultivation. Once planted, they will live for years increasing in beauty and value from season to season. Because they are slow to become established and resent being disturbed, care should be taken that new plantings be suitably located and the planting properly done.

WHEN TO PLANT. Growers begin fall shipping after the eyes are matured, usually about September 15, and planting may successfully be done any time before the ground freezes up for winter. PEONIES ALSO MAY BE PLANTED IN THE SPRING, IF ROOTS ARE OBTAINABLE. THE EARLIER SPRING PLANTINGS ARE MADE THE BETTER.

WHERE TO PLANT. Peonies should be planted in fertile, well-drained soil, and where they will get the full sun at least half the day. They will not do well in poorly drained ground, or where water stands about their roots during any part of the year; and they will not bloom well, if close under trees or in full shade.

NEVER PLANT PEONIES IN SOIL WHERE PEONIES HAVE BEEN GROWN BEFORE.

Peonies for Spring Planting

Peonies may be successfully planted in the spring.

For the convenience of customers who find it desirable to make spring plantings, we carry large stocks of our Peonies in storage for spring sale and are prepared to make shipments as wanted up to March 15. Orders for spring shipments should be placed as early in advance as possible to insure getting all varieties wanted.

All roots in storage will be planted about March 15th and orders received after that time will be recorded for fall shipment unless we are otherwise instructed.

Cut Flowers

WHEN CUTTING PEONIES ALWAYS LEAVE SOME LEAVES ON EACH STALK. IT PAYS.

Size of Divisions

Prices quoted for strong 3 to 5 eye divisions, with a well balanced root system. Healthy and true to name.

Many of the originators names are abbreviated in the following lists: Crousse (Cr), Lemoine (Lem), Kelway (Kel), Hollis (Hol), Richardson (Rich), Guerin (Gu), Calot (Cal), Goos & Koenemann (G. & K.), Rosenfield (Ros), Gombault (Gom), Verdier (Ver), Vilmorin (Vil), Franklin (Fra), Dessert (Des), Thurlow (Thur), Shaylor (Shay), Riviere (Riv).

Rating of Varieties

The figures following the varieties give the ratings based on 100 per cent and were taken by members of both Peony and Iris Societies.

JAPANESE PEONIES

The so-called Japanese peonies are really a type of flower occurring in the process of development from the single flower to the full double bloom which have the same wide guard petals as the singles but in which the central stamens and anthers have become transformed into narrow, thick petaloids of various colors, or into narrow petals tipped with vestiges of the yellow anthers without pollen. Because this type of bloom was favored by Japanese gardeners, such peonies have come to be known as Japanese Peonies. While many of the finest "Japanese" varieties have been imported to this country from Japan, equally good Japanese type peonies have been selected from the seed beds of growers in the United States, France and England.

Japanese peonies in general are strong growers, they usually propagate slowly; and the increased demand for them has made many of the finer varieties very scarce.

Peony Collections

As an aid to beginners in Peony growing and those busy people who haven't time to study catalog descriptions, we have assembled the following collections. We offer them with our assurance that each variety is a good one, selected from the hundreds of different Peonies, on its merit alone, as one of the best for the purpose mentioned.

These named collections are permanent features of our business, and years of understanding love for Peonies have guided us in their make up. Each is intended to reflect a lasting credit to the good will of Indian Spring Farms.

The "Single Collection".

A tall, early white, a delicate pink and a beautiful dark red. These splendid single varieties will extend your blooming season for Peonies nearly two weeks.

IRISES

Tall Bearded Irises

The following list of Bearded Irises includes most of the varieties we are able to supply for shipment during 1930. In it will be found most of the Irises of outstanding merit now in commerce, including many of the newer kinds as yet available only in limited quantities. These scarce varieties are offered for shipments after August 1st, and orders received will be booked for shipment at that time unless otherwise specified.

For the convenience of those not thoroughly familiar with Iris varieties, we have designated the ratings of the different varieties as determined by the symposium of the American Iris Society, thus—Asia 9.2. Where no ratings is given, the variety has not yet been rated by the society. While these ratings are not infallible, they very accurately depict the comparative merits of the different Irises.

ANY 25 CENT IRIS WILL BE SOLD, 60 CENTS FOR 3; $2.00 PER DOZEN.

ANY 35 CENT IRIS WILL BE SOLD, 85 CENTS FOR 3; $2.50 PER DOZEN.

Iris Sibirica

The Sibiricas are naturally adapted to landscape and decorative plantings. Their graceful, grass-like foliage is vigorous and retains its beauty throughout the entire season, while their profusion of bloom affords brilliant and effective coloring. They will thrive in the cultivated border, or in any strong, rich soil, and are thoroughly at home in naturalized plantings or when used to fill in the odd corners. They are effective about the pool, surrounding the bird bath, and when worked in about the rockery; and they are beautiful in border planting along the drive, or when massed along the watersides.

TURQUOIS CUP (Cleveland). Large flowers of exquisite soft sky-blue. Stigmas turquoise-blue. Stock scarce. $5.00

Beardless Irises

SPECIES AND MISCELLANEOUS VARIETIES

In this group we offer several species of hybrid varieties that are very desirable. Many of them are suitable for planting in moist places and combine well with the other beardless Irises of the Sibirica group in decorative plantings. All will thrive in the well tilled border, and all should have advantage of full sun.

AUREA-Spuria. A very beautiful golden yellow flower. Not to be confused with the bearded variety Aurea, also yellow but very common. while AUREA (Spuria) is one of the most beautiful Irises in commerce. 38 inches. $3.00 each.

DICHOTOMA or VESPER IRIS. A little known Iris from Northern China. Small, fairy-like flowers of pinkish lavender on widely branched stems. The flowers open in early afternoon and fade at evening. Begins blooming about the middle of August and continues for three or four weeks, and produce more flowers than any other Iris. Very odd and interesting. $1.00 each.

DOROTHEA K. WILLIAMSON (Will). Large, velvety flowers of the most vivid blue-purple. 3 ft. .75

ENSATA (Species). Russian Iris. Long grassy foliage and small, pale gray-blue flowers. Prefers a hot dry location. .35

VISITORS ALWAYS WELCOME

LOS ANGELES

The Gladiolus at Indian Spring Farms

Early July until late October is Gladiolus time at Indian Spring Farms. Scarcely are the late Peonies faded and gone before the early-flowering "Glads" appear to cheer the world with bright color throughout the summer and fall. And what a sight they make! Visitors stand enraptured as they view the acres of rainbow colors spreading out in rows, like miles of brilliant ribbons, in everchanging hues from purest white through shades of pinks, yellows, violets and reds to deep maroon. In our trial beds hundreds of new varieties, many yet too rare to have place in catalog lists, open their glorious flowers as heralds of the beauty that will delight the gardens of the future.

Fortunately, this pleasure of flowers is not confined to vast commercial plantings. Gladiolus are at their best in the more intimate surroundings of the home garden. Planted in rows throughout the beds, or grouped in clusters amongst other perennials, they tower majestically above the surrounding green and lend that cheerful color effect to the summer garden which is so necessary to complete the atmosphere of brilliance that pervades our modern life as portrayed within our homes, by our automobiles and in our personal attire. Exterior decoration is as important to present day home life as is interior planning, and only by liberal and judicious planting of flowers can desired color effects be secured. Gladiolus are a happy solution to this solar problem, for by their use gorgeous beauty reigns throughout that trying time when other flowers are out of season.

Situated as we are in one of the most beautiful parts of New York State, in what is known as the Gray Belt district, we enjoy a climate that is most favorable to the propagation of Gladiolus. Abundance of moisture throughout the growing season insures a quick development of fine, vigorous bulbs. Our soil and our New $20,000 Storage Building of Concrete; Modern and up to date, enable us, even under adverse weather conditions, to harvest our bulbs, cure them, and preserve them perfectly. In buying Gladiolus from us, you are assured of receiving good, healthy, plump bulbs, grown under ideal rigorous Northern climatic conditions, that will give good account of themselves when planted elsewhere.

SIZE OF BULBS. Prices here quoted are for mature bulbs of blooming size, 1¼ inches in diameter or larger. All varieties do not produce bulbs of equal size.

Gladiolus Mixtures for Mass Plantings

All flower lovers do not find it desirable or practical to grow Gladiolus quantities and keep the varieties and names separate. They do, however, want the finest flowers in a rainbow of colors, and plenty of them. To such customers we unhesitatingly recommend the purchase of quality mixtures such as we offer.

In testing out and growing many hundreds of Gladiolus varieties, as we do at Indian Spring Farms, many lots of the most desirable varieties multiply faster than others so that all stocks are not evenly absorbed by our retail sales. These surplus lots make up the basis of our Indian Spring Farms mixtures. Wide color range is carefully considered, and such varieties are added as are necessary to complete a balanced assortment. All are named varieties that have a place in commerce, and often a single bulb has a retail value of several times greater than we ask per dozen for the mixture.

To appreciate to the fullest extent the great variety and beauty of Gladiolus, it is absolutely necessary to grow a large number of kinds together. The average gardener will derive far greater pleasure from a planting of the almost limitless number of varieties in our mixtures than is possible from a limited number of selected kinds. For best results, plant as many bulbs as possible, either in beds by themselves, in clumps along the borders, or scattered at random among the perennials and bedding plants.

Indian Spring Mixture

A quality assortment of truly fine Gladiolus recommended for planting when fine flowers are wanted but where named varieties are not required. Surplus lots of our best named varieties go to make up this assortment, both ruffled and plain petaled types, carefully balanced to afford a WIDE COLOR RANGE and a long blooming season. All are fine plump bulbs of blooming size that are sure to give satisfaction.

$1.00 per dozen; $5.00 per 100; 250^c at the 1000 rate.

Cutting Garden Mixture

OUR WONDERFUL SPECIAL VALUE COLLECTION.

This is a balanced assortment of the tested varieties that we ourselves are growing for cut-flower purposes. It is especially commended to those making plantings for roadside sale of cut-flowers and to hospitals, hotels and institutions where a quantity of beautiful flowers is desired at low cost. Large bulbs of blooming size. 50 cts. per dozen; $3.00 per 100; $25.00 per 1000; 50 sold at the 100 rate; 250 at the 1000 rate.

Special Collection Offers of Named Gladiolus

Tigridia (Tigerflower)

This old fashioned flower with its brilliant coloring and curious tiger like blotches is rarely seen in present day gardens. Since bright colors are now desired, the Tigridias are again in active demand. They are summer flowering bulbous plants that bloom freely from mid-summer until frost, on stems 2 feet high. The flowers are large, triangular in shape, often measuring 4 to 6 inches across, and are peculiarly marked with spots and blotches in brilliant shades of orange scarlet, yellow, gold and brown. The foliage and bulbs are similar in appearance to the Gladiolus, and cultural requirements are the same. The bulbs are planted in the spring after danger of frost is past and must be dug in the fall and stored in a cool dry place where they will not freeze. Mice seem particularly fond of Tigridias and the bulbs must be carefully protected during the winter.

Tigridia pavonia (Common Tigerflower). Very large, flat flowers with a distinct shell-like center. The three large petals are bright orange-scarlet and the center is clear, bright yellow curiously blotched with markings of gold and reddish-brown. 25 cts. each; 60 cts. for 3; $2.00 per doz.

Hardy Lilies

There is no genus of plants better fitted for any garden than the Lily. They can truly be called the noblest of garden flowers. Their conspicuous blooms, striking colors, and stately forms appeal to the eye, and their delightful fragrance is most pleasing.

The Lilies here offered are easy to grow, perfectly hardy, and will do well in any garden. Our bulbs are grown on our own farms in our rigorous Northern climate and are the best obtainable.

How to Grow Lilies

Select a well drained location for your Lily planting. The ground should be prepared well in advance by digging deep, 16 inches or more. If drainage is not perfect, arrange for drainage by an underbed of stones or porous materials. On top of this should be at least 2 feet of good loam mixed with leaf-mold and sand in liberal proportions. If fertilization is necessary, use bone-meal. Do not use stable manure of any kind. In their natural state, Lilies thrive in what might be termed "poor soil" and they should not be over fertilized. Plant Lily bulbs deep so they will be covered with a depth of soil at least twice the diameter of the bulbs—eight to ten inches is not too deep. They should not be planted alone but do better where there is a protective ground-cover and where they are not subjected to frequent cultivation. Most Lilies may be planted in either spring or fall. They are best planted when fresh dug bulbs are obtainable.

LILIUM regale (Regal Lily). Without question this wonderful, new, hardy Lily from China is the most satisfactory white Lily grown in our American gardens. Discovered growing wild in the poor volcanic soil high up in the mountains by Mr. E. H. Wilson of the Arnold Arboretum, Boston, it has readily adapted itself to cultivation, and is fast replacing all older varieties for garden planting and for florists' forcing. The flowers are large and trumpet-shaped, ivory-white, shaded pink and tinged yellow at the base of the petals. They open in July in clusters of two to six or more on rigid stems 2 to 4 feet high. In favorable locations, they reach a height of 6 feet and produce flowers of immense size and wondrous beauty.

Small Bulbs, blooming size, 25 cts. each; 65 cts. for 3; $2.50 per doz.

Large Bulbs, blooming size, 35 cts. each; 85 cts. for 3; $3.00 per doz.

L. tigrinum splendens (Giant Tiger Lily). This improved form of the native single Tiger Lily is of tall, imposing growth, reaching a height of 4 to 6 feet. The latest of all the Lilies, blooming in late August and September. The large flowers are orange-red, richly spotted purple on reflexed petals, and are borne on long, well spaced panicles on the stiff stems. Large bulbs, 35 cts. each; 90 cts. for 3; $3.00 per doz.

L. umbellatum (Western Orange-cup Lily) A thoroughly hardy Lily that is desirable for its bright color early in the season. The trumpet-shaped flowers are dark orange-red and are borne in clusters on strong stems of 3 feet. Open with the Peonies in June. Large bulbs, 25 cts. each; 60 cts. for 3; $2.00 per doz.

Grow Regal Lilies from Seed

REGAL LILIES ARE EASILY GROWN FROM SEED. Planted out doors in the spring in well prepared garden soil, they will produce blooming sized bulbs the second year. If transplanted at the end of the second summer, will quickly develop into mammoth bulbs and bear large flowers of great beauty.

We offer a limited amount of fine seeds of our own growing.

2000 seeds for .50. 5000 seeds, for $1.00

Hardy Phlox

The Perennial Phlox might well be called the flower of summer. Blooming as they do at the between-season time when spring has past and before the fall flowers come, they fill in the border between plantings and furnish color during the trying months of July and August when all else fails. The fragrant flowers cover a wide range of colors, and are borne in huge heads, or trusses, on stout stems above a bank of rich green foliage. Their desirable habits and massive blooms afford many possibilities for mass plantings and garden effects. BY CLIPPING OFF THE BLOOM TRUSSES BEFORE THEY GO TO SEED, a second crop of flowers may be had which will often prolong their season late into the fall and until the frosts come.

CULTURE. Phlox are gross feeders and are at their best in a rich soil and where they do not lack for moisture during the bloom season. Plant in the full sun if possible, but they will do well in partial shade, provided they are not robbed by roots of the trees or shrubbery. Set eighteen inches to two feet apart and cultivate frequently. Destroy all chance seedlings that may appear, as they revert to the old magneta types and may eventually choke out your parent plants. Divide the old clumps and reset every third year, or replace with new roots, if you would have strong, thrifty plants.

General List of Phlox

ALBION. White, faintly marked mallow-purple at the eye. Florets large with the segments overlapping. Trusses large and flat, borne on stalks 27 inches tall. Mid-season. 25 cts. each; 60 cts. for 3; $2.00 per doz.

AUSTRALIA. Rich rhodamine-purple, shading to an indistinct amaranth-purple eye. Florets large with segments separately spaced. Medium tall with loosely formed trusses of medium size. 36 inches. Late. 35 cts. each; $1.00 for 3; $3.00 per doz.

BRIDESMAID. A beautiful variety with large, rounded trusses of perfect form. White, delicately flushed pale amaranth-pink and blending to a large center of bright Tyrian rose. 36 inches. Midseason. 25 cts. each; 60 cts. for 3; $2.50 per doz.

ETNA. Bright scarlet-red with a small amaranth-purple eye. Florets small to medium with close set segments. Semi-dwarf growth, 18 to 24 inches, with large, loose trusses. 25 cts. each; 60 cts. for 3; $2.00 per doz.

ENCHANTRESS. A beautiful variety similar to Elizabeth Campbell but more vigorous in growth and having a dark center instead of white. The florets are very large and round with broad segments that overlap. Soft rose-pink, overlaid with rose-red toward the borders, surrounding a center of Tyrian-pink. Trusses large. 30 to 36 inches. Late midseason. 35 cts. each; $1.00 for 3; $3.00 per doz.

EUROPE. A strong, sturdy and distinct variety with large, evenly formed trusses. The florets are large with segments slightly overlapping. Pure white with a distinct bright amaranth-purple eye. Midseason. 25 cts. each; 60 cts. for 3; $2.00 per doz.

FERDINAND CORTEZ. Very large florets of bright Tyrian-rose, flushed deeper at the borders and shading lighter Tyrian-pink around the deeper amaranth-purple eye. Heavy, branched trusses; rich, dark green foliage. 24 to 27 inches. Midseason. Similar to Sir Edwin Landseer but with larger florets and slightly deeper color tone. 40 cts. each; $1.00 for 3; $3.00 per doz.

FRAULEIN VON LASSBURG. Pure white. Florets medium size with round segments overlapping. Fine large trusses. Medium height. Midseason. 25 cts. each; 60 cts. for 3; $2.00 per doz.

ISABEY. A tall variety with loose and widely branched trusses. Medium to small florets of soft rose-red, shading lighter around a distinct amaranth-purple eye. Similar in color to R. P. Struthers but has smaller florets and distinctly different growth. 35 cts. each; 90 cts. for 3; $2.75 per doz.

LA VAGUE. Very tall, 36 to 40 inches, with large, conical trusses of fine form. Florets medium size with segments overlapping. Soft amaranth-pink, shading lighter, with a conspicuous eye of bright Tyrian-rose. The strong lilac color and the profusion of bloom make this a very desirable variety. 30 cts. each; 75 cts. for 3; $2.50 per doz.

LE SOLEIL. Soft deep rose-pink, shading lighter at the center, with faint amaranth-purple markings at the eye. The large florets with overlapping segments are borne in very compact trusses. Dwarf to medium height. 18 to 24 inches. 35 cts. each; $1.00 for 3; $3.00 per doz.

LUMINEUX. Medium to large florets with spaced segments. Soft Tyrian pink, shading lighter to pale amaranth around a small Tyrian-rose eye. Medium height with globular, compact trusses. 30 cts. each; 75 cts. for 3; $2.50 per doz.

MME. PROSPER LANGIER. A fine, dark red variety. The florets are medium size with the segments partially overlapping. Uniform bright aster-purple, shading to pomegranate-purple at the eye. 35 cts. each; $1.00 for 3; $3.00 per doz.

MICHAEL BUCHNER. Medium sized florets with overlapping segments. Dull mallow-purple, with a star-shaped center of light pomgranate-purple. A good deep lavender variety. 25 cts. each; 60 cts. for 3; $2.00 per doz.

MISS LINGARD. One of the earliest flowering tall varieties belonging to the Suffrutescens group and one of the most satisfactory to grow because of its pleasing light green foliage that is free from attacks of red spider. The florets of medium size have the segments slightly overlapping and are pure white with a faint tint of rose-pink about the eye. Long, compact trusses. Height 30 inches. 25 cts. each; 60 cts. for 3; $2.00 per doz.

MISS MILLY VON HOBOKEN. This variety has the largest individual florets of any Phlox in our collection. They are evenly rounded with segments spaced. The color is a soft deep rose-pink, blended to Tyrian-rose about the eye. Compact, flat trusses of medium size on stems of 24 to 27 inches. Midseason to late. 50 cts. each; $1.25 for 3; $4.00 per doz.

MRS. CHARLES DORR. Tall growing variety with long, compact, globular trusses. Individual florets small with spaced segments. Color clear light mallow-purple, shading to mallow-pink, with faint star markings of Tyrian-pink at the center. A desirable lavender for landscape effect. 36 to 40 inches. 25 cts. each; 60 cts. for 3; $2.00 per doz.

MRS. JENKINS. A very free flowering early variety producing trusses of clear, pure white flowers. The individual florets are large with segments overlapping. 27 inches. 25 cts. each; 60 cts. for 3; $2.00 per doz.

RIJNSTROOM. A very beautiful variety of brilliant pink color, vigorous in growth, with heavy trusses. The florets are large and rounded, with overlapping segments, bright rose color lighted with a flush of rose-red, blending to amaranth-pink at the center. 30 inches. 35 cts each; $1.00 for 3; $3.00 per doz.

R. P. STRUTHERS. The large round florets are soft, light rose-red surrounding a distinct amaranth-purple eye. Large trusses of loose form. 24 to 27 inches. Lighter in color than Sir Edwin Landseer. 35 cts. each; 55 cts. each; $2.50 per doz.

SIR EDWIN LANDSEER. A good, tall growing red that is effective for landscape planting. Large, conical trusses with individual florets medium to large, rounded, with close set segments. Oriental Poppies

Immense cup-shaped blooms of gorgeous coloring. Clumps of these throughout the border add a brilliancy that no other flower can provide. Blooming period, May and June. They are of the easiest culture; almost any kind of soil suits them, but they do best in deep rich loam. August and September is the proper time to plant and we ship our roots at this time only. Mulch with leaves or stable litter in the early fall and there is no risk from severe winter weather.

CERESE BEAUTY. A large, rich, glowing cerese-red Poppy on strong stems. Gorgeous. .75

EMPRESS OF INDIA. A very showy orange-scarlet of fine substance. Vigorous. .75

LULU A. NEELEY (Neeley). The very best red Oriental Poppy in the world. $3.00

Oriental Hybrids Mixed

The Oriental Hybrids we are offering for sale are from the famous seedling beds of Dr. Neeley, of Paulding, Ohio, and are far superior to the ordinary Oriental Hybrids. These wonderful Hybrids are finding their way into commerce on their own merits and not through the intent of the originator, who prefers to work for the love of flowers rather than financial gain.

These gorgeous seedlings .50 each; $6.00 per dozen.

Grow Oriental Poppies From Seed

Oriental Poppies are very easily grown from seed. Scatter on the ground in the fall and very lightly cover with fine soil. Keep free from weeds the first summer and transplant to any place desired, when the leaves turn brown and the plant is dormant. The following summer these plants will bear immense flowers, embracing the most striking colors. PACKET OF 2000 SEEDS, 50 CENTS. 4500 SEEDS FOR $1.

An Invitation

Visitors are welcome at Indian Spring Farms. We extend a cordial invitation to you to visit us at your convenience and enjoy the different flowers, as they bloom in season. Many rare and interesting varieties will bloom in our test plantings this year that possibly can not be seen elsewhere.
